

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Oliver Orton

Oliver Orton has worked with IFC since 2010, first managing IFC's Corporate Governance Program in South-East Europe and now its wider program in Europe and Central Asia.

He is a qualified English lawyer, with 14 years' legal experience, including in London and Paris, working with international corporate law firms, emerging market private equity houses and international organizations, advising companies in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America on raising finance, corporate governance, privatization and corporate restructuring.

Prior to joining IFC, he worked for the Asian Development Bank, advising emerging market companies in Asia seeking to raise finance from international financial institutions (IFIs) and commercial banks. Oliver holds a B.A. and an M.A. in Law from Cambridge University (UK).
