

ALPHA BANK

Announcement [20.8.2014]

With regard to articles by the website www.bankingnews.gr which speculates on capital requirements and expresses opinions on the indicative issue price of new shares of potential share capital increases, as well as general press reports that refer to the results of the ongoing stress tests at a European level, Alpha Bank states that, according to the announcement of the European Banking Authority, none of the financial institutions subject to the aforementioned process, knows or will know the results of such stress test until about the time of their announcement; the results would be expected to be announced by the European Banking Authority in the second half of October 2014.

This announcement is released at the request of the Hellenic Capital Markets Commission.