A person, entitled to participate, may appoint a representative for either a single general meeting or as many meetings as may take place within a certain time. The representative's failure to comply with the instructions he/she has received does not affect the validity of the decisions of the general meeting, even if the representative's vote was decisive in taking them.

Prior to the commencement of the Extraordinary General Meeting, the shareholder's representative shall notify the Company of any specific event that may be useful to shareholders to assess the risk of the representative serving interests other than the interests of the specific shareholder.
