Space Hellas as part of the Greek national delegation to GITEX GLOBAL 2025

Space Hellas participates in the National Mission of Greece at Gitex Global 2025, the most important technology exhibition of the International Market, which will take place in Dubai, October 13-17.

Greece will be 'present' for the first time at the event with a National Pavilion, an initiative of SEPE (Federation of Hellenic ICT Enterprises) with the support of Enterprise Greece, and Space Hellas is among the companies that will represent the Greek digital ecosystem.

During the exhibition, Space Hellas will present its integrated portfolio of solutions and services, which covers critical areas of the global digital agenda. The Internet of Things and Artificial Intelligence (AI) solutions use the most up-to-date technologies for optimizing business processes, enhancing productivity and creating new operating models. At the same time, in the field of cyber security, Space Hellas presents advanced services and products that have been developed internally, utilizing the company's many years of experience and know-how. These solutions meet the growing requirements for the protection of critical infrastructure and data, thus offering high levels of resilience and trust. They focus on the prevention, detection and treatment of modern threats, while incorporating innovative technologies that ensure the safety of business processes and the uninterrupted operation of organizations.

Particular emphasis is also placed on energy and environment solutions by SenseOne Technologies, a subsidiary of the Space Hellas Group, with technologies that support sustainable development and green transition. Space Hellas is not limited only to providing innovative technological tools, but contributes substantially to the formation of a safer, efficient and sustainable future, in alignment with international priorities and market needs.

With a 40-year history and a leading position in the Greek IT and communications market, Space Hellas is constantly investing in innovation and know-how. Its presence at GITEX GLOBAL 2025 is another step in the effort to make Greece a reliable hub of technology and innovation at a global level.
